"PLAY SQUARE"

"Play Square", will bring to the local screen Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker, the popular young actors who were recently made stars by William Fox.

In "Play Square" Walker is seen as a member of an underworld gang in a big city. The boy, though naturally of clean mind and heart, has been unwittingly led into his evil surroundings. Through the friendly intercession of a Judge, who feels sure the boy can be reclaimed, the latter is kept from prison and returns to his small town home determined to reform.

For a time everything goes well. The boy takes a humble position as a grocer's clerk. His reform is made difficult when the gang discovers his hiding place, and threatens to expose him unless he helps in the robbery of his employer. For a time it looks as though the lure of the old life would drag him back, and it is not until he has opened his employer's safe for the gang that the real awakening comes to him, and at the risk of his life he battles with the members of the gang. The outcome is developed in a most dramatic climax. Edna Murphy is seen as the young man's sweetheart, the influence of whose love does much toward his reclamation.

Get the Habit

The habit of eating food that is good and wholesome is not hard to cultivate. Most people like to get the most value for their money in food as well as clothing. When you ask your grocer for you are ordering butter that comes wrapped in dust-proof oiled paper, that is made in the center of New Zealand's famous dairy district, and that is moderately priced. You will like its flavor.

HARRY CAREY in "The Fox"

ty. "The Fox" is a rugged, powerful super-drama of the Golden West. It is a gripping, heart-punch, action western. I sincerely believe that it is one of a thousand and I know that it is my best production.

Whether you prefer westerns or not here is one picture that I know that you will like; it is the first super-western ever made. You'll enjoy every moment of it. I hope that you will come to see me in this my greatest production.

Yours,

HARRY CAREY

"The Fox", Harry Carey's first big Universal-Jewel super feature and which is the first super-western picture ever screened, is coming to the Maui Theatre next week.

The concluding scenes were made at Universal City at night, where a picturesque stretch of country was illuminated by a blaring brush fire around which dramatic action was filmed.

Harry Carey himself wrote "The Fox". It was adapted to the screen by Lucien Hubbard and filmed under the direction of Robert Thornby. It will make motion picture history by its dramatic force, its picturesque locale, its interesting cast and the fact that regular United States cavalry was used to furnish atmosphere.

Most of the story was filmed on the Mojave desert, near Red Rock, where a modern army camp was built by Universal to quarter the big outfit necessary to maintain production. Nearby was encamped G and E Troops of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, especially detailed to the production by Maj Gen. Muir, commanding general of the Ninth Corps Area.

Graphic shots of the regulars going into action with Harry Carey's own flying squadron of cowpunchers riding on the flanks, breath-snatching views of an explosion that churned up the earth of an acre, a tender love story and some of the most magnificent scenery ever captured by the camera, will add to the appeal of the story.

Harry Carey was supported by Betty Ross Clark in the leading feminine role, and by such popular screen favorites as Alan Hale, George Nichols, John Harron, Gertrude Claire, George Cooper, Breezy Eason, Jr., Charles Le Moyne, Capt. C. E. Anderson, Harley Chambers and others.

"GREAT LOVERS"

History has recorded a number of men under the heading, "Great Lovers," and fiction tells of various such, but none of these achieved the phraseonym, "The Great Lover."

"The Great Lover" is a super-lover, a lover whose artistry is so perfect, whose gallantry so faultless that even the fickleness of his nature and the variety of his loves cannot put him in ill standing with the fair-sex. Like Dante, who in his youth loved the fair Beatrice, so Jean Paurel (The Great Lover) loved Bianca. But the difference between them in the form of the intrigue and jealousy of the operatic stage, of which Paurel was a famous singer. Then the noted tenor became a philanderer and his affairs are not equaled by the greatest of known lovers.

William the Fourth, or the King Georges—the Second, the Third, and the Fourth, who are among the outstanding figures in the listed of noted lovers, are surpassed by Paurel, Burns, Byron, Voltaire and Rousseau, who were as famous for their affairs of the heart as for their writings, fall short of this super-lover of the screen.

Enough romances are crowded into the brilliant career of Paurel to fill the lives of The Cid, Charles the First, the Second, and the Seventh, Boccaccio, Lamartine, Peter the Great and many more historic heart breakers.

Yet Paurel is called "The Great Lover" to his last day. Never the "Love Pirate," "The Fickle One," or the "Heart Breaker."

John Sainpolis, the actor who skillfully interprets this difficult role, retains the affection of all the ladies even though he is unable to win the love of Ethel Warren the leading woman, who prefers "The Great Lover's" son to himself.

Allenby Tells About
Plans Made For Sudan

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt July 1—(Associated Press Mail)—General Lord Allenby, British High Commissioner for Egypt, during a recent visit to Khartoum, delivered an address in which he indicated British purposes in the Sudan. He said in part,

"I notice some fears among the Sudanese peoples regarding a less intimate future association between Great Britain and the Sudan for the development of the country. Such intentions are not those of the British government, and as a confirmation of these words I cannot do better than mention to you the speech of the British Premier in the House of Commons Feb. 28, 1922, when the question of the independence of the Sudan was discussed. Here are his words:

"I must speak first of the Sudan which is very important for the British Empire. Sudan deserves our good attention. The combined efforts of England and Egypt have been necessary to preserve the country from devastation and ruin.

"For the last 20 years England and Egypt have worked both with men and money to re-establish peace and prosperity in a country which must and will be some day in the near future as fertile and as populous as it could ever possibly be. The British Government will never allow the progress already realized and the great promises of the future to be put in danger, nor will it ever consent to any change in the by-laws of the country which would diminish the safety of the millions of British capital devoted to the development of the Sudan.

"On the other hand, Egypt has got the undeniable right of demanding full guarantees so that the development of the Sudan may not threaten the actual water distribution in coming years. The government is ready to give these guarantees, and there are no reasons why these should prevent or delay the progress of the Sudan.

"I think these words are sufficient to reassure you and I hope that, once back to your homes, you will tell your people that England is not abandoning this country."
